

Problem Statement

There should be more programs and ways to come together for college students who are becoming overwhelmed with assignments, managing jobs with school, or experiencing hardships within the collegiate life to prevent them from being so discouraged.